BROWNVILLE, THURSDAY APRIL 27, 1865.

Now that the "beginning of the end" of the war can be fairly seen, the question as to what punishment should be inflicted on traitors and rebels, has become one of living interest and vital importance. On it rests the future peace and prosperity of the whole country. Whether the bullet which caused the wound shall remain in the body of the country, there to cause constant uneasiness and perhaps future trouble, or whether it shall be cut out ere the wound is healed, and thus insure a healthy future. Slavery—the immediate cause of the war—is in the past, and can no longer cause serious trouble; but those who have caused the loss of hundreds of thousands of lives, oceans of blood and millions of treasure for its perpetration, are within our grasp as traitors, and must be punished for treason, or the peace of the country becomes a mere play thing in the hands of unscrupulous demagogues. If no example is made—if mercy to traitors become a precedent—any section of the Union, any particular interest that may feel itself oppressed, or any State, can get up, with impunity, a rebellion at any time, so long as men can be hired to fight for money and ambitious men may have it. The crushing out of this rebellion will doubtless have a great moral effect, not only in this country, but all over the world; but the neglect to punish the authors of it, and permitting them again to gain high places of trust or honor under this government, would mar all the moral effect of victory, would lower the government in the eyes of our people, and make it appear even more than contemptible in the estimation of the civilized world. Our self-respect makes the severest punishment to treason necessary, the respect of those States who are being forced back to allegiance, make it necessary, and justice cries aloud from the grave of our lamented Chief Magistrate for vengeance, and if its voice be not heard, we be unto us as a people.

Many schemes have been proposed, all containing mercy to the deluded masses. Some are for exiling the leaders, others again for hanging those who have received an education at government expense and who have deserted the Government and committed treason, and only exile for the leaders who have arisen from civil life; in the one case, it is argued, desertion and treason is committed, in the other, treason only. This distinction seems to us unnecessary, and to add another aimless point to the discussion. Treason is the highest crime known to our law, and it matters not if the criminal has run through the whole calendar of crime, if he be convicted and hung for treason, that must expiate for all.

We believe that the heaviest penalty known to the law should be inflicted on the leaders of the rebellion, civil or military; that their property should be confiscated, and, if possible, applied to the education of the masses of all colors; that for every traitor hung, ten good Northern school-masters should be sent to the South to "teach the heathen, and spread the gospel;" that to everyone in the South, capable of reading, should be given a copy of the Bible, the Constitution and a true history of the rebellion bound in one volume. We believe that all that is necessary to cement and strengthen the Union more completely than it ever was, is firmness on the part of our present authorities, and light to the deluded masses. As ignorance is the parent of anarchy and the foot-stool of tyranny, so education is the parent of Liberty and free government. Let us give the people light, hoping that their minds are not so darkened but that truth may find a lodgment there, and bring in its train Union, Peace and Prosperity.

THE NEWS.

The President's remains are to be interred at Springfield, Ill., his former residence. On its way it is to pass through Baltimore, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, N. York, Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis and Chicago to Springfield. The processions and demonstrations of mourning during its passage are described as unprecedented. It lay in state in Old Independence Hall in Philadelphia. At the news of the assassination Richmond, Savannah, Charleston and all the rebel cities were draped in mourning, with flags at half-mast, and rebels are reported as mourning sincerely. Prominent rebels declare it is the severest blow the Confederacy has yet received. One need only glance over the loyal press, and there see the unanimous call for vengeance on the rebel leaders, to know this to be a fact. The country demands that justice be done to loyalty by the punishment of traitors, and Andrew Johnson will hear and answer that demand. Johnson has made stipulation of surrender to Gen. Sherman, which agreement is entirely set aside by the Government, the terms were even better than our late President would have given, and more than the rebels had ever asked before. Sherman may not be so good on the write as the fight, but the Government is on the alert, and Johnson is so hemmed in that he can easily be choked to any terms. Mosby has surrendered on the same terms as Johnson.

The N. O. Delta says that Jeff. Davis crossed the Mississippi at Tunica Bend, on Sunday, the 16th, with a strong body guard, and other dispatches say, with $500,000 in specie. It is supposed he will try to raise another army there, although it is reported that Kirby Smith is detaching the Trans-Mississippi rebel army. Jeff. says he will never leave the boundaries of the Confederacy, we hope he will not, and may be caught, then the principle of "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" and a President for a President, may be aptly illustrated.

Many different rumors prevail with regard to the capture or whereabouts of Booth. The latest is that it has come to the knowledge of the War Department, which renders it nearly certain that Booth's horse fell with him on Friday night, the 14th, and it is believed caused a fracture of the leg. It is supposed he is concealed near Washington, but has not yet been caught.

A number of N. C. Legislators are reported at Newburn to negotiate the State into the Union. Gov. Vance is a prisoner.

On the 20th, Gen. Wilson took possession of Macon, Ga., capturing Howell Cobb, J. A. Smith and other prominent rebels.

Sec. Seward and his son Frederick are reported as recovering very fast; no fears are now entertained of their entire safety.

The Bostonians are raising $100,000 in S. L. subscriptions, to be presented to Mrs. Lincoln as a testimonial of their respect and veneration for our lamented President.

The War Department has offered a reward of $50,000 for the apprehension of the assassin of President Lincoln.

$25,000 for the apprehension of J. A. Surratt, and $25,000 for the apprehension of David C. Harold, another of Booth's accomplices.

The most trustworthy account we have yet seen of the tracking of Booth, is in a dispatch dated Reading, Pa., April 20th. Mr. Lyon, a U. S. detective, says:

The report that Booth came to Reading is correct, he remained there all day. He was recognized, and traced to the depot, where he had got on a train which had just left. Mr. Lyon and Miller, detectives, started in pursuit and telegraphed to Tananqua, to the conductor of the train, who replied, on the arrival of the train: "The man is on the train." A dispatch was immediately sent for his detention, but the man was gone. The detectives are positive that it was Booth, and are still on the track, but the means now used for his arrest, are withheld as contraband at present.

We learn that Governor Alvin Saunders has been re-appointed Governor of Nebraska. We admit that the appointment is a good one, but can't help but think the policy a poor one which has imported all our Governors from the States, while just as good men in our Territory are willing thus to sacrifice themselves for the common weal.

We learn from the St. Joseph Daily Herald that Hon. Wm. Kellogg, late member of Congress from the Peoria District, Illinois, has been appointed Chief Justice of Nebraska.

S. W. KENNEDY, President.

We learn from the Omaha Republican, that Hon. E. Estabrook has been appointed, by Acting Gov. Paddock, to make a revision of our laws, in pursuance of the Act passed by our Legislature. Mr. Estabrook is a man of experience, and we think he can codify better than he can canvass.

The river is in good boating order and rising.

PORT KEARNEY.

April 18th, 1865.

Mr. Editor: For want of items, till lately, I could not give you a paying letter; now they come so profusely, the duty of condensation is imperative.

I have, at last, seen a real prairie fire—carried forward in a hurricane charge—licking up ten thousand dollars worth of Government property in ten minutes, in the form of stabling and forage, at this post.

The great Indian Expedition commenced by Gen. Mitchell, and more than a month delayed for a Kansas regiment, the 16th—which went into winter quarters at Pawnee City, is as far from moving as ever, so far as I can discover.

By the way, Lieut. Col. Walker, of that regiment, deserves a little attention from the press. Of only a few of his characteristic acts I heard, but you shall have the law:

1st. I hear of his beating two of his men on the way here, the one with his fist, the other with his sword.

2d. He ordered a man shot, a citizen, without any trial, in this Territory. The boy had taken life, but Walker was neither a civil or military executioner, but assumed both. For this he should lose his commission.

3d. At Plum Creek he kicked a ranch man and flogged one of our farmers.

4th. At a point farther west assumed authority to place a company of ours under guard till he was ready to move on, beat one of our men and chased another. This is only a preface, what do you fancy of the Book? [Think it should be bound in hemp.—Ed.]

Trains cover the road west, and many emigrants are starting out before grass comes. Indians quiet. New troops all along our end of the route. Col. Livingston is active, faithful, and anxious, as usual, to present his as a model District. Surrender of Lee, caused the Colonel's order for a salute all along the line. Then came, on Thursday, the salute of 200 guns by order of the Secretary of War: and as usual on such occasions, one gunner killed, and Fuller of Co. "C," our Veterinary Surgeon—shot in the arm, and burned in the face and eyes. He will live. Begins, after four days blindness, to see a little.

Saturday, flag at half-mast for death of President Lincoln.

Sunday, all day, from sun to sun, a gun discharged every half hour. At 2 p. m. command assembled at headquarters, and Eulogy on the character of the deceased, by Chaplain Tipton. 6 p. m. band boys flog a copperhead.

Comment needless.

Sovereignly yours, NEMAHIA.
